FREE 24hr instant specialist support during COVID-19

Coronavirus has brought many challenges to veterinary practice. Frontline vets are dealing with emergency situations whilst also facing reduced staffing levels, sickness and heightened stress. We have created an online specialist support network to try to help. You can now access FREE instant advice from a team of caring veterinary specialists.

How does this work?

If you are a new user then you just need to register and add your veterinary clinic. Once you are logged in to your account, simply click on the Telemedicine Hospital button. This will show you the telephone number to call in your region. You will be asked to select the specialist that you want to speak with and will be directly connected. Our veterinary receptionists will also explain how to send supporting material such as videos, lab results and photos. After the interaction you will receive a brief summary of the advice given. There is no fee and no tie-in.

Who are the team?

Our caring, supportive team consists of European and American Diploma holders in internal medicine, emergency critical care, neurology, surgery and ophthalmology. Many of them are giving their time for free to help with this initiative.

Note: This service is aimed at supporting patients who need advice in a specialist field but who cannot be referred to a physical referral clinic for some reason. If you can physically refer the patient, then we always recommend that you contact the referral clinic directly rather than calling VetCT.
